CAMPAIGN FODDER

Control of Congress Key Political Issue

By RON CALHOUN, Political Writer

CONTROL IS what politics is all about, I think. The proof of this pudding keeps cropping up in the Bush-Bentsen campaign talk and in the rhetoric of the local congressional candidates. Not only do they talk about winning their individual races, but winning a majority in the House and Senate so they can control the committee chairmanships.

The President, of course, has great power by virtue of the pre-eminence of his office and the fact that he runs at least the top echelon of the bureaucracy.

But the birthing of everything federal takes place in the cloakrooms and committee rooms of Congress. Here, decisions made on who gets what pork out of the federal barrel. Here, decisions are made that affect the general posture of the nation on economics and defense.

THE PRESIDENT sends Congress what he wants in the way of legislation. But it is Congress, through the labyrinthine ways of its own committee structure, that shapes the final version of the bill if it allows it to go through at all.

Now Nixon is a Republican. The Democrats control Congress. This is the first time such a situation has confronted a newly-elected chief executive in about a century.

In a way this gives the Republicans an out. They can blame war, inflation, recession, high interest rates, flood, famine and pestilence on a "foot-dragging" Democrat-controlled Congress.

It also gives them a campaign issue. Senatorial candidate Bush and local congressional candidates Frank Crowley and Joe Staley never miss a chance to talk about how they want to help President Nixon get this country off "dead center" and on the road to solving all the nagging problems currently plaguing us. And they want to do it with a GOP stamp all the way down the line.

CALHOUN

THEY WANT to get rid of William Fullbright as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Emanuel Celler as chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

But Texas Democrats, while they may not be the greatest boosters of Fullbright and Celler, certainly do like their own Rep. W. P. Poage, who is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, Rep. Eldon Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Rep. Olin "Tiger" Teague, chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee, Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

They also like Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas heading Ways and Means, William M. Coler of Mississippi heading Rules, and Mendel Rivers guiding Armed Services.

They have many friends on the Senate side, too, including Richard Russell of Georgia (Appropriations), Russell Long of Louisiana (Finance) and Clinton Anderson of New Mexico (Aeronautics and Space Sciences).

FORMER GOV. JOHN Connally, speaking in behalf of Bentsen last week at a rally in Plano, called the roll on committee chairmen friendly to Texas and named their Republican opposites.

"Who do you want to trade off?" he thundered.

The Democratic chairmen, he said, "understand our needs . . . our parlence."

Connally first went to Washington, D.C., in 1939 as secretary to then Congressman Lyndon Johnson. He knows his way around the committee rooms and the cloakrooms. He is now with a prominent Houston law firm and still has occasion to go to Washington from time to time.

And so do a lot of Texas businessmen, ranchers, farmers, oilmen, developers, mayors and city councilmen who for one historical reason or the other play politics from the Democratic side of the fence.

PERHAPS Congressman Earle Cabell sums it up best from the Democratic point of view.

"A school boy knows that to achieve a passing grade you can't just sit there like a wooden Indian. He doesn't accomplish anything if he doesn't do his homework.

"I do my work in the committee, in the cloakroom if you please, and on the floor of the House before they take that final vote. That is where legislation is influenced."

CAMPAIGN THEMES

Florida, Congressman William Cramer

1. Experience -- can get more done in Florida - very positive approach.
2. "Chiles is part of liberal establishment."
3. Walking Senator versus Working Senator.

Cramer running as a Nixon Man.

Maryland, Congressman J. Glenn Beall

1. Spending.
2. Deliverance of Government services, more state and local government.
3. Beall a moderate good guy, not an arrogant liberal.
4. Law and order.

He is tying in with the President.

New Jersey, Nelson Gross

1. "You'll know he's there." A powerful new voice in Washington.
2. Spending
3. The war.
4. Law and order.

"100% behind Nixon."

Nevada, William Raggio

1. Law and order.
- Nixon candidate.

Tennessee, Congressman Bill Brock

1. The war.
2. Spending.
3. Domestic unrest, law and order.
4. Prayer in schools.

All the way with the President.

Texas, Congressman George Bush

1. "He can do more."
2. Bentsen's shady dealings (farm subsidies, other business dealings).
3. Economy.

Running as a "Texas" candidate, and proud of his Nixon affiliation.

PLANNING

A Rural Development Meeting of the Cabinet is being laid on for Springfield, Illinois.

As the President moves through his campaign itinerary this week, the occasions might well arise where we will want the Cabinet members to echo points or a line made by the President and our operation is prepared to contact them immediately.

The POW Stamp Unveiling Ceremony got good coverage this past week and a ceremony unveiling anti-pollution stamps will be held in San Clemente this Wednesday. The Postmaster General will preside and Robert Finch and Russell Train will be on the program. Unfortunately, we have been informed Senator Murphy has other commitments.

COMMENTS

The Boston Globe's mid-September poll gave Kennedy 57%, Spaulding 29%, Undecided 14%. The early October poll gave Kennedy 52%, Spaulding 29%, Undecided 19%.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- CONNECTICUT

In Lowell Weicker and Tom Meskill, Connecticut has a chance this year to elect exceptionally able men as Senator and Governor.

Lowell Weicker is a man of the new decade, whose voice in the Senate will be a strong voice for Connecticut and a strong voice for responsible progress. Tom Meskill is a man of experience and action, who understands Connecticut's problems and can put its government back on a sound financial footing.

Lowell Weicker and Tom Meskill are men you can have confidence in, and I will have confidence in. I urge you to elect Lowell Weicker to the U. S. Senate and to elect Tom Meskill Governor.

ONE MINUTE STOP FOR TAPING -- NEW JERSEY

New Jersey has the chance this year to elect a Senator with first hand experience as a law enforcement officer, a man who will fight effectively against violence and crime and drugs. That man is Nelson Gross.

Nelson Gross is an experienced leader who will fight effectively against reckless spending that breeds inflation, and for sensible programs to move America forward.

In Nelson Gross, you will have a Senator who can do MORE for New Jersey because he will be working WITH Senator Case, WITH Governor Cahill, and WITH the Nixon Administration. I hope you will be WITH Nelson Gross and the entire Republican ticket on November 3rd.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- MARYLAND

In Glenn Beall and Stanley Blair, Maryland has a chance to elect two proven men of action as Senator and Governor. Glenn Beall speaks for the people of Maryland. I have relied on him in the House, and I want him as an important part of our team in the Senate. As Maryland's Secretary of State and Vice President Agnew's chief of staff, Stan Blair has established himself as a highly talented administrator who knows both State and Federal government. I have great trust and confidence in both Glenn Beall and Stanley Blair, and I urge you to elect them as your Senator and your Governor.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- INDIANA

In 1968, Indiana voted for a change. In order to carry out that change, I need a strong, solid team in Congress -- and I want Richard Roudebush in the U. S. Senate as a part of that team. Richard Roudebush will work with us, not against us. He will help us break the logjam in the Senate. He will help us keep America strong. He will fight crime and disorder. He will help us check inflation by checking the big spenders. He will help us move America forward. I urge you to vote for Richard Roudebush for the U. S. Senate.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING --NORTH DAKOTA

In the Presidential election of 1968, North Dakota voted for a change. In order to carry out that change, I need a strong, solid team in Congress -- and I want Tom Kleppe in the U. S. Senate as a part of that team. Tom Kleppe will help us check inflation by checking the big spenders. He will help us achieve peace with honor in Vietnam. He will be a strong, forceful voice for the farmer.

A vote for Tom Kleppe will be a vote to break the Senate logjam, and to move our programs for a better and stronger America forward. I urge you to vote for Tom Kleppe.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- VERMONT

In Win Prouty and Deane Davis, Vermont has exceptionally able men as United States Senator and Governor.

Senator Win Prouty is a man who works hard for the people of Vermont. He is a skilled and experienced legislator who has won great respect in all branches of Government.

Governor Deane Davis has restored sound financial management to the State. On crucial issues ranging from the environment to enforcement of the law, he has shown great foresight and wise leadership.

Win Prouty and Deane Davis are men in whom you can have confidence and I will have confidence. I urge you to re-elect Win Prouty and Deane Davis.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- TEXAS

This year, Texans have an opportunity to take a strong step in the direction of more effective leadership in Washington and in Austin.

I have seen George Bush in action, as one of the most effective Congressmen in Washington. As your Senator, George Bush will be a doer -- working together with me in the best interest of all Texans and all Americans.

I've seen Paul Eggers in action, as General Counsel to the Treasury Department. As your Governor, he will hold the line against the kind of big spending that drives up prices and taxes.

I urge you to make your voice heard for George Bush and Paul Eggers on Election Day.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- FLORIDA

Your vote on this Election Day can help make the difference in the direction this nation takes.

With Bill Cramer as your United States Senator, you and I will be able to count on strong support for winning a just peace; for an end to the big spending that drives up prices and taxes; and for a firm stand against crime and disorder.

With Claude Kirk as your Governor, you can depend on sound, effective action and cooperation with my Administration.

I urge you to vote for Cramer for Senator and Kirk for Governor, so that we can move Florida and the nation ahead.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- UTAH

My friends in Utah. This Administration and this President need Laurence Burton in the United States Senate.

Two years ago, I dedicated my Presidency to ending inflation and the Big Spender philosophy that causes it -- to ending the violence and disruption that has swept America -- to ending the war in Vietnam with honor -- to giving America a new Supreme Court.

We are succeeding on every front -- but on every front we meet Senate opposition. That is why -- for peace with honor in Asia and progress without disorders at home -- I ask the people of Utah to elect Laurence Burton to the U. S. Senate this November.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- NEW MEXICO

Too often in the last Congress, a single vote, a majority of one, was the deciding vote on whether or not my Administration continued its policy of peace with honor in Asia, and peace through strength in the world. I ask you to guarantee that we have that majority of one in the next Congress -- by electing Andy Carter to the United States Senate.

And elect Pete Domenici your next Governor. In this new era, we are returning power and resources to the States and we need Governors with skill and understanding, men like Pete Domenici.

Elect Andy Carter and Pete Domenici this November -- for peace abroad and progress at home.

ONE MINUTE SPOT FOR TAPING -- NEVADA

We need Bill Raggio in the U. S. Senate. We need him -- because when the great questions come up -- a just peace in Asia, a strong America in a dangerous world -- Bill Raggio will stand up for what's right. .

Senator Raggio will be a vigorous national spokesman against obscenity, pornography, disruption and crime.

And we need Ed Fike as the next Governor of Nevada. Governor Ed Fike will be a strong force against crime in Nevada, a strong advocate of the rights of Nevada, and a strong voice for Nevada in Washington.

Senator Bill Raggio and Governor Ed Fike -- will be a great team -- for Nevada and for our nation.

MEMORANDUM FOR LARRY HIGBY

SUBJECT: Comments on the Suggested Basic Campaign Text

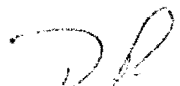

1. Attached is my copy with specific recommended changes.
2. Recommend 1/4 to 1/3 of present speech be cut.
3. In place of the cut material, I would suggest something along the following lines:

--R.N. balance criticism of what has been with State of the Union/St. Louis/Kansas State type language from earlier speeches as to "what could be" -- R.N.'s vision of America, the alternative he offers.

--The President can offer the leadership and hope that Americans are searching for.

--The section would balance the other material which recognizes their fears by verbalizing the best hopes and aspirations of the American people for their country, their families and themselves.

--The section should reflect his belief that with their help the nation can do better. This approach would signify leadership for the whole nation toward the fulfillment of their hopes.

Donald Rumsfeld

SUGGESTED BASIC CAMPAIGN TEXT

There are some who say the President should stick to "Presidential business" during an off-year election, because the tide usually runs against the party that occupies the White House. But I say ^{that} ~~there is no~~ ^{is important,} ~~business more important than~~ the business of democracy, and I am here today to urge you to send to Washington the kind of men who will speak up for your rights, act in your behalf, and fight for your convictions.

The candidates of America's two great political parties are pitted against one another this fall to determine the character and direction of the Ninety-Second Congress of the United States.

But in a very important sense, this is not a traditional election -- nor could it be. Because today, in America, there are two separate and distinct political and social philosophies competing for the right to ^{guide} ~~set~~ ~~shape~~ the destiny of this nation -- the destiny of our society at home, and the destiny of the Western World.

These elections are another phase of the political and philosophical conflict of 1968 -- a conflict between the dogmas of the old elite that dominated America in the sixties and, ~~on the other side,~~ a new leadership that represents the values and beliefs of a new emergent majority in American politics.

"Philosophy"
best word.

At the beginning of the 1970s, we are well into a period of time when a national candidate's party affiliation is becoming less important than his (philosophical orientation.) Approach to our society.

What made this conflict possible -- indeed inevitable -- was the utter failure of the old elite to meet the crises of the last half of the last decade. Because of those failures, America in 1968 was left with rampant inflation in our economy, with an unprecedented wave of disorder and violence in our society, and with an endless and divisive war in Southeast Asia.

The old elite that dominated so much of American life in the 1960s had been given the mandate -- and their approach had failed.

In 1968, while the philosophy of the old elite was rejected at the highest national level -- it still to this day ~~was left in~~ controls of the dominant party of the Congress of the United States. Now, in 1970, the question is clear:

Will the American people vote to go back to the old ways which gave us rampant inflation, rising crime, and an endless war -- or will America reaffirm the judgment made in November of 1968 -- that America must travel along a new road -- and never travel ~~go down~~ that old road again.

This is the great question on which the American people will speak again on November third.

There is another sense in which this election is unconventional and untraditional. It is this. 1970 is an election year, I believe, in which millions of good workingmen and women of America who have been inclined to vote on the basis of political party, ^{having questioned that approach,} are going to ~~abandon and~~ ^{them and their} reject those men who have abandoned and rejected ~~many of the principles~~ ^{many of the principles} which made America great. ^{hope and Aspirations for their} ~~Country~~ ^{Country and their} ~~and their~~ ^{families}

The vast majority of Americans, I believe, will reject those officeholders and candidates who try to demean their own country and who counsel defeat and humiliation for America. The American voters will reject those who have condoned and excused disorderly and malevolent actions by campus radicals. They will reject those men who, in their concern for the rights of criminals, have all but forgotten the right of innocent people to enjoy freedom from fear. They will reject those who have forgotten that it is the students, the young, the poor and the black, whose rights are the most abused and the most violated by radicalism, ^{by} militancy, ^{by} violence and ^{by} crime.

In November, I believe, some misguided officeholders and candidates are going to learn ~~just~~ how far out of touch they have gotten with the working people they are supposed to represent.

So today let me issue an invitation to the working men and women of America who may have been inclined to vote for the Democratic Party in the past -- to join us in a crusade to build America in the future by protecting and defending and extending the principles that have made ours the greatest nation in the world.

For too long now, America has been sending out too many contradictory signals on foreign policy. The voices of weakness on Capitol Hill have confused the nation and misled the world into thinking America is ready to return to the discarded shell of isolationism.

This fall, I urge Americans to render a judgment at the polls -- to make their views known in no uncertain terms.

If America does not want ^(the sophisticates call neo-) ~~craven~~ isolationism -- and I do not believe it does -- then the neo-isolationists should be turned out of the Congress of the United States -- on those grounds alone.

At this point in history, as we are ^{steadily} moving toward peace in Asia, as we are working to avoid war in the Middle East -- I ask the American people to send to the Congress Senators and Representatives who will stand with us for peace with honor in Asia and peace through American strength in the remainder of the world.

In the first twenty-one months in office, my Administration has carried forward the commitments we made in the fall of 1968. We have moved steadily ahead on a course of reform, restoration and renewal.

We have submitted more than a dozen major proposals to deal with the crime, the violence and the disruptions of American society. We have cut the rate of inflation in half. We have moved America halfway down the road to an honorable peace in Asia. American casualties have fallen to the lowest levels in four and a half years. By next May 1 almost half of the American troops in Vietnam when I took office will have come home -- home not in disgrace or in defeat -- but home in honor after a job well done.

This progress has come about -- not with the support of Congress -- but in the face of obstructionism by some members of the Congress every step of the way.

Our efforts against inflation have been attacked by the Big Spenders on Capitol Hill; our efforts to produce strong new laws to deal with bombings, crime and violence languished for months because of a permissive attitude on the part of too many Members of Congress; some highly visible and vocal Members of Congress have attempted ~~at every~~ ~~turn~~ to undercut our efforts to win a just and honorable peace in Asia.

The time has come to call the roll on the Ninety-First Congress of the United States.

Now is the time to turn out those Members who helped to thwart anti-crime, anti-inflation measures at home -- who helped to block many of the great domestic reforms America voted for in 1968 and this Administration proposed in the calendar year of 1969 -- who talked and worked against efforts toward an honorable peace.

Now is the time to reject those who helped to stall efforts to create a New Federalism in American ~~politics~~ while offering no alternative of their own -- except the old ways, and the old ways, my fellow Americans, represent no alternative at all to this new Administration.

We proposed a New Federalism -- that would change the ~~political~~ ^{responsibilities of} ~~landscape of~~ ^{government in} this nation -- but the controlling clique in Congress refused to change.

There is first of all -- revenue sharing -- a reform endorsed by both party platforms in 1968 -- a reform that would take power and responsibility away from the Federal government in Washington and return them to the States and people where they belong -- a proposal that the Congress has failed to adopt.

A year ago, we asked Congress to join us in reforming the nation's chaotic welfare system -- to give people incentives to work along with their welfare check -- to take people off the welfare rolls and put them onto payrolls in the United States. This is one of the most historic social programs to be presented to the Congress in thirty-five years -- this is a program to end poverty in America, a program years overdue -- but Congress in a full year of vacillation could not make up its mind to act.

Eighteen months ago, we asked the Congress to reform the chaotic and unmanageable grants-in-aid programs -- final action has yet to be taken.

Another pillar of the New Federalism is our program to consolidate the manpower training programs under a single roof -- and then begin the gradual ^{movement} ~~dissipation~~ of responsibilities back to the States where they belong. That proposal has not yet been enacted.

In the Social Security Amendments currently before Congress I asked that a cost-of-living adjustment be written into the Social Security benefits -- so that retired citizens and widows would never again carry an excessive and unfair share of the national burden of rising prices. The Congress has yet to complete action.

Our new draft reforms, our anti-pollution proposals have not been enacted into law -- and there is no excuse for the failure to enact them.

What of the major anti-crime proposals? Fewer than half of them have been enacted into law; the others still languish in the hands of a seemingly uninterested Congress.

One wonders just what evidence this Congress needs -- in the numbers of dead children being picked up off our streets from an overdose of heroin -- before it decides the time has come for action.

And what has happened to our proposals to prevent the use of the mails for salacious advertising and for sending pornographic filth to children. Most of them are still lost in Committee.

The old elite that does not get outraged about the rise in ~~filth~~^{crime} in this country -- should be sent a message loud and clear this fall -- that America is tired of permissiveness -- and the era of permissiveness ^{excessive} is coming to an end in the United States of America.

Many of our legislative initiatives deal with the problems of the poor in America -- as rightly they should. But my Administration is also determined to represent the interests and the rights and values of the working men and women of America.

These are the forgotten Americans -- they are the Americans whose problems and grievances all too often are ignored -- because they are not publicized. And they are not publicized because the working men and women of this country -- the backbone of America -- use the traditional and legitimate avenues of dissent, not the avenue of disruption and disorder now being claimed as a privileged right by a militant few.

It is with the cause of the working man in mind that we have acted to increase unemployment benefits and extend them to four-and-a-half million more Americans. This is why we have proposed three billion dollars for manpower training. That is why new health and safety standards have been advanced -- and enacted in mining and construction. That is why fifty-three computer job banks have been established. That is why working families -- as well as welfare families -- would benefit from family assistance. That is why we have acted to exempt low income workers from Federal income taxes.

The working men and women of America have been forgotten by the old elite -- as that elite sought to curry favor with the militant young whom it believed to be the wave of the future.

The future of this country belongs to the young, it is true -- but not to the militant young or the radical young. It belongs to the millions of ~~college students~~ ^{young men and women} in this country who are studying to improve themselves and to prepare themselves to improve America. It belongs to those tens of thousands of young Americans who do not go to college -- but begin building careers and families when they have left high school. It belongs to the two million young Americans, black, brown and white and Spanish-speaking who have served their country -- and served mankind -- on the battlefields of Southeast Asia.

The American people spoke out loud and clear on the issues in 1968. They said we want this ruinous inflation halted. They said we want a firm stand against crime on our streets and a firm stand against disruptions and disorders in our colleges and universities. They said we want peace in Asia -- not a peace of humiliation and defeat, but a peace that does justice to the decade-long sacrifices of this nation and 43,000 of her sons. That is what America voted for in 1968; that is what my Administration is determined and dedicated to accomplish.

And I say when the Big Spenders in the Ninety-First Congress obstruct that fight against inflation by adding billions to the budget; when the permissive element in that Congress vacillates and delays action on our anti-crime proposals; when they talk about pornography and obscenity but fail to act as the nation demands; when they thwart our efforts to reform welfare; and when the neo-isolationists in the Congress try to undercut every Presidential effort to win for America a just peace in Southeast Asia -- then I say the time has come for the American people to turn out of the Congress the controlling clique and their submissive followers.

Fifty years ago, at another crucial moment in our nation's history, an American President came forward to do battle with a clique of Senators who were frustrating the will of the people.

These shortsighted men refused to allow America to strengthen her defenses in a world on the verge of war, and later these same men refused to allow America to join with other nations in preventing future wars.

And this is what Woodrow Wilson said about them: "A little group of willful men, representing no opinion but their own, have rendered the great Government of the United States helpless and contemptible."

Tragically for the United States, the little group of willful men, with their stranglehold on the Senate, defeated President Wilson and planted the seeds of another war.

But this time, my friends, the little group of willful men who today stand in the way of peace and progress are not going to succeed in making this nation "helpless and contemptible."

This time, in the year 1970, the voice of the great silent majority of the American people is going to thunder at the polls, and today's "little group of willful men" is going to be swept out of the Congress.

SUPPLEMENTARY NOTES

BIG SPENDERS

It took us nearly two years to put the reins on a runaway cost of living -- now that we've done it, this nation is not about to go off to the races again.

The old political slogan used to be "Spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect." But in 1970, The Big Spenders and the Big Taxers are going to be the Big Losers.

WEAKNESS

There is a type of man in public life today who makes weakness his watchword.

He votes to weaken our defenses. He urges us to weaken our negotiating position. He warns against strong measures needed to control crime and prevent disruption. For him, weakness is no longer a decision to be made on individual issues -- weakness has become his way of life.

But, my friends, if there is any one lesson history has taught us, it is this: Weakness at home leads to disruption, and weakness abroad leads to war.

America's moral strength is going to bring peace to our campuses. America's defensive strength is going to help bring peace to the world.

Those senators who have given in to overindulgence for six years are going to wake up with a big hangover on Election Day.

Those who say "give in" to disruption and "give in" to aggression will just have to give in to the great silent majority on Election Day.

THE VICE PRESIDENT

There's an old saying in American politics that "a man is loved for the enemies he makes." Well, when the Vice President is being denounced every day by the New Left, by the underground press, by the bomb throwers and the revolutionaries, and by the permissive politicians and obstructionist Senators -- then I say he's been making the right enemies and the American people love him for it.

INTRUSION DISCLAIMER

The President of the United States claims no right to tell you how to vote, but you have every right in the world to tell your own Senator how to vote. And when he doesn't get your message, it's time for you to get a new Senator.

GENERATION OF PEACE

I have said that we are determined to give our children a chance at what we never had -- a generation of peace. But we must do even more -- we must give them the moral strength and moral stamina to keep that peace in their own generation and beyond.

VIOLENCE

I have said time and again that the watchword of this Administration is reform. We have achieved postal reform and draft reform -- and with improvements in the Congress, we will achieve welfare reform and reform of the Federal bureaucracy, returning power close to the people where it belongs.

This needed reform of our system cuts across Party lines; it is bigger than politics. Every American of any Party can be part of this reform. But as Theodore Roosevelt said in 1913, every reform movement has its lunatic fringe. Today we have with us something worse than the lunatic fringe -- we have the criminal fringe, ready to break the law in the name of some higher law all their own.

But I say that the man who throws a bomb in the name of revolution is no different from the man who throws a bomb for kicks -- they are both members of the criminal fringe, and they will be tracked down and brought to justice and given the punishment they deserve.

The word for that action is not "repression" -- the word for that is justice.

SUGGESTED ANECDOTE

In 1959 Vince Lombardi became the coach of the Green Bay Packers. The Packers are a community-owned team and the people of Green Bay were disappointed with their team's poor performance and demoralization under the long string of previous coaches. Acting through their executive committee, the people of Green Bay decided to put Vince Lombardi in charge. This meant that Vince had to be able to shape the team and the team's spirit according to his best estimate of what was needed. And the people of Green Bay, acting through the executive committee of the Packer organization, gave Vince the support he needed.

Vince used this support wisely. He fired slackers and those who would not play for the good of the team. He built on the strengths of the team. He emphasized the basics. And he built a feeling of spirit, dedication and teamwork among the players and the town as well. In a few brief years, Vince Lombardi brought the Packers back to the championship form they had had in earlier years; from this point on the Packers were to set incredible records.

America has recently buried Vince Lombardi, but I believe his spirit lives on. We can all learn the lessons he had to teach, and if we learn the lessons, our nation can not only recapture its earlier greatness, but go on to set undreamed of records.

But to do this, we must all follow the tenets of the Lombardi philosophy:

First, we must (support our leaders) so that they can do what is needed in this country, and do it now. We can no longer hamstring the President with a Congress which plays politics with the vital issues facing the nation.

bad phrase for president use in debate Dem Senators.

Second, we must build on our strengths. We must ask what is right and good and fair in this country, and then we must build it up and extend it to all Americans.

Third, we must emphasize the basics, whether it is in the fields of national defense, pollution, or welfare reform. If the foundations of our society are strong, the great temples and towers will be too.

Fourth, we must limit the destructive influence of the slackers and those who obstruct the rest of us in our sincere efforts to build a better society. These nay-sayers should be confronted and debated and defeated wherever they are found; in the Congress, in the universities, in the ranks of selfish businessmen and union leaders, in the violent radical groups, and in the criminal element of our nation.

And, finally, we must rebuild the spirit, dedication and teamwork which is the rightful heritage of our nation. We must find a new enthusiasm and a new energy to bring forth the promise of our society.

We will be able to do this if we all work together. The nation needs the help of all its citizens, and its citizens need each other's help. With your assistance, and the grace of God, we will be able to do it.
